I. Human rights and the Sustainable Development Goals

1. The Thai Government recognizes that the promotion and protection of human rights are fundamental to sustainable development and the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). Guided by the principle of Leaving No One Behind, Thailand has adopted this principle as a key policy framework to accelerate the achievement of the SDGs by 2030 and in preparation for the post-2030 development agenda.

2. The Thai Government has therefore integrated human rights into the implementation of the SDGs, encompassing economic, social and cultural rights, as well as civil and political rights. This is reflected in policies to eradicate poverty (SDG 1), promote quality education (SDG 4), ensure the right to health (SDG 3), advance gender equality (SDG 5), reduce inequalities (SDG 10), and strengthen effective, transparent and accountable institutions that uphold the rule of law (SDG 16).

3. According to the Sustainable Development Report 2026, Thailand remains among the region's top performers in SDG implementation, having achieved SDG 1 (No Poverty) and SDG 4 (Quality Education). Nevertheless, challenges remain in strengthening the rule of law, access to justice, transparency and effective institutions (SDG 16), as well as addressing climate change, conserving natural resources and biodiversity (SDGs 13 and 15), and promoting sustainable cities and communities (SDG 11). The Thai Government remains committed to advancing human rights and sustainable development in a mutually reinforcing manner.

II. Thailand's priorities on human rights

4. The Thai Government remains committed to promoting, protecting and increasing access to human rights for all. Particular attention is given to persons in vulnerable situations, the right to health, business and human rights, and emerging challenges, including pandemics, climate change, the right to a clean, healthy and sustainable environment, and the impact of digital technologies on human rights.

5. The Thai Government is convinced that the foundation for progress in human rights starts at the national level through a shared understanding of rights and responsibilities among the public and relevant authorities. This is undertaken by promoting human rights education and awareness with regard to domestic law and international human rights obligations.

6. At the international level, the Thai Government remains committed to strengthening cooperation in the Human Rights Council (HRC), particularly through technical cooperation and capacity-building to support States in promoting and protecting human rights. Since its first term as an HRC member, Thailand has led the drafting and negotiation of the HRC resolution on Enhancement of technical cooperation and capacity-building in the field of human rights. Thailand continues to do so in its current term (2025–2027).

7. The Thai Government also remains committed to promoting and protecting human rights as well as to enhancing its capability in responding to various forms of global challenges, including conflict situations, energy crises, economic volatility, and climate change.

III. Methodology

Implementation of recommendations

8. Following the presentation of Thailand's third cycle of the Universal Periodic Review (UPR) national report to the UPR Working Group at its 39th Session on 10 November 2021, the HRC adopted the outcome report at its 49th Session in March 2022. The Thai Government received 278 recommendations, of which it accepted 218 and noted 60.

9. The Thai Government developed a UPR National Action Plan for the accepted recommendations and the voluntary pledges made during the third cycle. Approved by the Cabinet on 20 December 2022, the plan identified leading and supporting agencies, implementation activities, and timelines for implementation.

Thailand's 3rd cycle mid-term update, the drafting process of Thailand's 4th cycle UPR national report, and stakeholder participation

Voluntary pledges 54 (c) and 54 (f)

10. The Department of International Organizations, Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the Rights and Liberties Protection Department, Ministry of Justice, organized eight workshops and public consultations in Bangkok and six regions across the country. These activities disseminated progress on the implementation of UPR recommendations, enhanced understanding of the UPR mechanism and the recommendations received by Thailand, and gathered inputs from government agencies, civil society, academia, and other stakeholders. The consultations reflected the diverse contexts of each region. The inputs were used in preparing Thailand's fourth cycle UPR national report.

11. This report was endorsed by the National Committee on the Implementation of Recommendations under the Universal Periodic Review (UPR) Mechanism of the Human Rights Council (HRC) and approved by the Cabinet, reflecting the Thai Government’s continued support for and commitment to the UPR process.

IV. Cooperation with international and regional mechanisms

Recommendations 51.18, 51.20–51.22, 51.45–51.49, 51.56–51.60, 51.64 and voluntary pledge 54 (h)

12. The Thai Government supports the Secretary-General’s UN80 Initiative to enhance the efficiency and agility of the United Nations, viewing that such reform should strengthen the organization's capacity to fulfil its mandate, particularly in the promotion and protection of human rights.

13. The Thai Government maintains regular engagement with the Regional Office for South-East Asia of the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) in Bangkok.

14. As a member of the HRC for the 2025-2027 term, the Thai Government attaches importance to promoting constructive dialogue and cooperation among States and stakeholders through capacity-building and technical cooperation in the field of human rights. It has continued to support initiatives on key issues such as promoting gender equality in the context of the right to development, advancing older persons' access to economic, social and cultural rights, protecting the right to health in times of crisis, and addressing the challenges faced by LGBTIQ+ persons.

15. The Thai Government welcomed the official visits of two special procedures mandate holders of the HRC: (1) the Working Group on discrimination against women and girls (2–13 December 2024); and (2) the Special Rapporteur on the right of everyone to the enjoyment of the highest attainable standard of physical and mental health (18–28 February 2025). The Thai Government will consider incorporating the recommendations made by both mandate holders in its efforts to promote and protect human rights.

16. On the occasion of the 60th anniversary of the adoption of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR) and the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (ICESCR) in 2026, the Thai Government reaffirms its commitment to promoting and protecting human rights in accordance with its obligations under both Covenants.

17. As a member of the ASEAN Intergovernmental Commission on Human Rights (AICHR), the Thai Government remains committed to advancing: (1) the ASEAN Enabling Masterplan 2025: Mainstreaming the Rights of Persons with Disabilities; (2) the right to a safe, clean, healthy and sustainable environment; and (3) Human Rights Cities, by promoting urban environments that respect and uphold human rights.

18. As Thailand's focal point for the AICHR, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs conducts the selection process for Thailand's Representative to the AICHR in a transparent and inclusive manner. Vacancies are publicized to government agencies, the National Human Rights Commission of Thailand, academic institutions nationwide, and civil society organizations. A selection committee, comprising representatives from the executive branch, the legislature, independent bodies, academia, civil society, and the media, is established to oversee the selection process.

19. On 12 July 2024, the Thai Government officially joined the Equal Rights Coalition (ERC) and participated in a panel discussion entitled "Pathways to LGBTIQ+ Inclusion in National Laws and Policies" during the Equal Rights Coalition Conference 2024 on 17–18 December 2024 in Berlin.

20. The Thai Government recognizes the interlinkages between international human rights law and international humanitarian law. It maintains close engagement with the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) to promote awareness and compliance with international humanitarian law, through preventive and operational measures. In the context of the Thailand-Cambodia situation, the Thai Government authorized the ICRC to visit and interview 18 Cambodian soldiers under Thai custody. On 31 December 2025, the Thai authorities repatriated all 18 soldiers to Cambodia in accordance with human rights principles and the Third Geneva Convention, with ICRC representatives present as observers. In addition, the Thai authorities granted the ICRC access to affected areas to collect information on humanitarian impacts and interview relevant stakeholders upon request.

21. The Thai Government is undergoing a technical assessment process for accession to the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD). It is promoting the enhancement of relevant standards through various measures, including on responsible business conduct, the development of an e-learning course based on the OECD framework "The Essentials of OECD Due Diligence for Responsible Business Conduct", and the commissioning of a feasibility study on the establishment of an appropriate model for Thailand's National Contact Point (NCP).

V. Legal framework and national policies

Recommendations 51.1–51.4 and 51.23

22. The Constitution of the Kingdom of Thailand B.E. 2560 (2017) recognizes human rights and establishes oversight and remedy mechanisms for the people through independent institutions and judicial processes, in line with Thailand's obligations under the international human rights instruments to which it is a party.

23. Since the presentation of Thailand's third cycle of the UPR national report in 2021, Thailand has made significant progress in developing laws and policies that protect and promote human rights as follows:

No.	Title	Related Human Rights (including but not limited to)
1. Laws and Legislative Proposals
1.1	Protection and Promotion of the Way of Life of Ethnic Groups Act B.E. 2568 (2025) (Recommendations 51.51 and 51.53)	• Thailand's first legislation on ethnic groups, reflecting a shift in the conceptual framework of the relations between the State and ethnic groups from a welfare-based approach towards a rights-based approach and empowerment. It encompasses the right to participate in cultural life and decision-making processes affecting their communities.

1.2	Civil and Commercial Code Amendment Act (No. 24) B.E. 2567 (2024) (Marriage Equality Act) (Recommendations 51.48 and 51.49)	• Guarantees the rights to equality and non-discrimination and recognizes the right of all persons to establish a family, including by raising the minimum legal age of marriage to 18 years.
1.3	Prevention and Suppression of Torture and Enforced Disappearance Act B.E. 2565 (2022) (Recommendations 51.10-51.13)	• Establishes measures to prevent, suppress and punish acts of torture and enforced disappearance, which constitute violations of the prohibition against torture and cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment, as well as the rights to life, liberty and security of person, and recognition as a person before the law.
1.4	Draft Climate Change Act B.E. … (Recommendations 51.60-51.64)	• Aims to guarantee the right to a clean, healthy and sustainable environment, as well as the rights to health, an adequate standard of living, and development.
1.5	Draft Anti-Discrimination Bill B.E. … (Recommendation 51.45–51.46, 51.48–51.49, 51.51, 51.135–51.137, 51.148, 51.169, 51.178 and 51.179)	• Seeks to guarantee equality and non-discrimination, human dignity, and the right of all persons to equal protection under the law.
1.6	Draft Anti-Strategic Lawsuit Against Public Participation Act B.E. .... (Anti-SLAPP Bill) (Recommendations 51.43–51.44, 51.95, 51.191 and 51.194)	• Establishes legal mechanisms to prevent and address strategic lawsuits against public participation (SLAPPs), which undermine the rights to freedom of opinion and expression, as well as the right to participate in public affairs. It also strengthens the protection of human rights defenders, the media, civil society, and individuals exercising their rights and freedoms in good faith for the public interest.
2. National Plans
2.1	5th National Human Rights Plan (2023-2027) (Recommendations 51.31 and 51.42)	• Aims to address human rights violations across all sectors and population groups in five key areas: governance, the justice system, public health, education, and the economy and business sector. • Identifies 11 target groups, including persons affected by the justice system, ethnic groups, stateless persons, persons with civil registration status issues, and human rights defenders.
2.2	2nd National Action Plan on Business and Human Rights (2023-2027) (Recommendations 51.56–51.59)	• Places emphasis on responsible business conduct in four key areas: labour rights, land and natural resources, human rights defenders, and international investment.

2.3	National Action Plan on Women, Peace and Security (2025-2027) (Recommendations 51.132–51.133 and 51.152)	• Links human rights with sustainable peace processes, through increasing women's roles in peacebuilding and protecting the rights of women in conflict situations.
2.4	National Action Plan on the Elimination of Violence against Women in Thailand (2025-2027) (Recommendation 51.45, 51.139–51.146 51.149 and 51.150)	• Integrates prevention and protection measures to reduce all forms of violence against women and promotes access to justice and remedy, by developing accessible and safe complaint channels and access to the justice process, through a survivor-centred approach.
2.5	Action Plan on Resolving the Problem of Stateless Workers (Recommendation 51.104 and 51.190)	• Serves as the primary integrated mechanism for managing and resolving the status of persons without civil registration records working in Thailand. It guarantees the right to recognition as a person before the law, promote equality and non-discrimination, and support access to fundamental rights and government services.
3. Specific Policies
3.1	Recommendation of the President of the Supreme Court on the Criteria and Procedures for the Consideration of Cases under Section 161/1 of the Criminal Procedure Code, B.E. 2569 (2026) (Recommendation 51.95)	• Prevents the use of court proceedings as a tool for intimidation or suppression of the exercise of the right to freedom of opinion and expression and participation in public affairs, and guarantees the right to access to justice.
3.2	Cabinet Resolution of 26 August 2025 approving employment management measures for Myanmar Displaced Persons (MDPs) residing in Temporary Shelters. (Recommendation 51.53 and 52.80)	• Permits Myanmar Displaced Persons (MDPs) to work outside the temporary shelters under specific guidelines, thereby promoting the right to work, the right to an adequate standard of living, and the right to live with dignity.

VI. National human rights mechanisms

Recommendations 51.18 and 51.32–51.41

24. The Thai Government has continued its efforts to implement recommendations concerning the National Human Rights Institution (NHRI). In March 2022, the Sub-Committee on Accreditation (SCA) of the Global Alliance of National Human Rights Institutions (GANHRI) restored the accreditation status of the National Human Rights Commission of Thailand (NHRCT) to Category A status, enabling the NHRCT to fully participate in United Nations human rights mechanisms, particularly in delivering statements and providing information to relevant meetings.

25. The NHRCT has demonstrated its readiness to serve as the National Preventive Mechanism (NPM) by conducting field visits to raise awareness on recommendations concerning accession to the Optional Protocol to the Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment (OP-CAT), as well as relevant practices for officials of immigration detention centres, Immigration Bureau facilities, prisons, and drug rehabilitation facilities.

26. The Committee on Driving Forward Human Rights Work in Thailand, chaired by the Deputy Prime Minister designated by the Prime Minister, serves as the National Mechanism for Implementation, Reporting and Follow-up (NMIRF). It is responsible for formulating human rights policies and promoting and monitoring the implementation of such policies by relevant agencies to ensure compliance with human rights principles.

VII. Protection and promotion of human rights

27. The Thai Government recognizes that the promotion and protection of human rights require a holistic approach, taking into account the interlinkages among all categories of human rights, as well as the importance of sustained engagement with various mechanisms under the HRC. This includes implementing recommendations under the UPR process and taking into consideration diverse views from various sectors. Concurrently, the Thai Government has incorporated the transition towards an ageing society and the future prospect of becoming a super-aged society into the formulation of relevant policies.

A. Economic, social and cultural rights

28. The Thai Government has adopted the National Multidimensional Poverty Index (MPI) to assess and monitor poverty situations and to inform the formulation of targeted policies and assistance measures for vulnerable population groups and areas. The MPI considers multiple dimensions of deprivation affecting people's quality of life beyond income, including health, education, living conditions, and access to basic services and welfare.

29. The 13th National Economic and Social Development Plan (2023-2027) sets Milestone 9: "Thailand has less intergenerational poverty and adequate, appropriate social protection." It aims to enhance and develop flexible and diverse social protection schemes to ensure that all groups receive appropriate welfare and that such schemes respond to the varying needs of people at different stages of life and social circumstances, while ensuring fiscal sustainability.

Right to health

Recommendations 51.102–51.103, 51.113–51.118, 51.121, 51.123, 51.184, 51.187 and voluntary pledge 54 (d)

30. The Thai Government has enhanced the Universal Health Coverage (UHC) system by developing the "30 Baht Treats All Diseases" scheme into the "30 Baht Treats Everywhere" scheme to improve the efficiency, coverage and quality of health services. The initiative places emphasis on expanding access to health services closer to communities through the strengthening of primary healthcare systems.

31. The Thai Government has integrated medical innovations to enhance access to health services, including telemedicine, telepharmacy, and digital health data management to improve the efficiency of healthcare service delivery. It has also developed medicine delivery systems through Village Health Volunteers (VHVs) and "Health Rider" services to facilitate access for service users.

32. The Thai Government has expanded health coverage to include undocumented migrant workers and persons with status-related challenges. In collaboration with the World Health Organization (WHO), Thailand has developed the Health Insurance for Non-Thai People System (HINT), also known as the "Tor 99" healthcare entitlement, to promote equitable access to health services and provide health protection for persons with nationality and status-related challenges without discrimination.

33. In July 2025, the National Health Security Office (NHSO) approved the inclusion of "gender-affirming hormone therapy services" as a health promotion and disease prevention benefit under the Universal Coverage Scheme (UCS) ("Gold Card" scheme), enabling LGBTIQ+ persons to access safe gender-affirming services.

34. The Ministry of Public Health has enhanced welfare and social protection benefits for Village Health Volunteers (VHVs) to strengthen community-level health personnel and promote the sustainability of frontline healthcare services for the public.

Right to education

35. The Thai Government has implemented the "Anywhere Anytime" policy to promote a flexible learning ecosystem through the full implementation of the National Credit Bank system. The system enables people of all ages to accumulate credits earned through online learning, vocational training, or work experience, which can subsequently be transferred or recognized for further education or the award of formal educational qualifications, thereby promoting lifelong learning.

36. The Thai Government has implemented the "Bring Children Back to School, Bring Learning to Children" (OBEC Zero Dropout) initiative in 2025 by the Office of the Basic Education Commission (OBEC), in response to the Ministry of Education's Thailand Zero Dropout policy. The initiative aims to identify, support and monitor children and youth aged 3-18 who are out of the education system, including more than 18,000 children who were identified as missing from the system in its first year, to enable them to return to quality education. It also promotes the transition towards flexible education to ensure that all children and youth have continued access to educational opportunities and self-development pathways that align with their potential and life circumstances.

37. The removal of fixed completion time requirements aims to support lifelong learning by allowing learners to complete their studies beyond the previous 4-year or 8-year time limits, and accumulate skills while working.

38. In 2025, the Thai Government supported education provision for students and schools located in special areas, such as remote highland areas and islands, where access to education is constrained by challenges, including limited transportation, household poverty, and shortages of teachers and educational resources. These efforts aim to promote equal and equitable educational opportunities. A total of 1,604 schools in special areas received support to improve the effectiveness of education management in accordance with their local contexts. In addition, subsidies were allocated during school holidays and before and after academic terms for 503 schools providing boarding facilities.

39. The 4th Education Plan for Persons with Disabilities B.E. 2023-2027 sets direction for development under the vision "All persons with disabilities receive education, develop their full potential, and live with dignity and security in a changing world." The Plan emphasizes the participation of all sectors in promoting equitable and inclusive access to quality education for persons with disabilities.

40. The Thai Government has implemented an initiative on strengthening schools and community collaboration to promote a multi-cultural society for peace in the Southern Border Provinces (SBPs). The initiative integrates cooperation among educational institutions, more than 65 communities, and partner organizations to foster acceptance of diversity in ethnicity, religion, identity and culture. It also aims to develop the vocational capacities and skills of learners, youth and local communities in the SBPs, preparing them for employment and enabling them to generate income for themselves and their families. The initiative covers education provision in Pondok Islamic learning institutions and vocational training based on the Phra Dabos School model in the five SBPs. It has benefitted 9,573 persons through vocational skills development and enhancement (as of fiscal year 2025).

41. The Thai Government has supported students without civil registration records or Thai nationality in obtaining educational documentation through the Ministry of Education

Announcement on the Admission of Students without Civil Registration Records or Thai Nationality B.E. 2568 (2025). This measure aims to promote equitable and equal educational opportunities. A total of 108,478 students without civil registration records or Thai nationality have received education at the compulsory education or basic education levels in schools under the Government's administration (as of fiscal year 2025).

Right to work

Recommendation 51.128 and 51.134

42. On 12 June 2024, the Thai Government ratified the International Labour Organization (ILO)'s Tripartite Consultation (International Labour Standards) Convention, 1976 (No. 144), which is one of the four ILO governance conventions. The Convention promotes the tripartite consultation of national mechanisms and processes on issues related to international labour standards.

43. On 10 June 2025, the Thai Government ratified ILO's Occupational Safety and Health Convention 1981 (No. 155), and the Protocol of 2002 to the Occupational Safety and Health Convention, 1981. The Convention promotes workers' fundamental right to a safe and healthy working environment, as well as effective records and notifications of occupational accidents and diseases in a more effective manner. The Convention and its Protocol came into force on 10 June 2026.

44. The Labour Protection Act (No. 8) B.E. 2566 (2023) allows employees to work from home or residence, or to work through the use of information technology at any place. It also grants employees the right to disconnect through any means with employers, chiefs, controllers or inspectors, unless the employee' prior written consent is obtained.

45. The Labour Protection Act (No. 9) B.E. 2568 (2025) stipulates key protection measures including: (1) service contractor employees working in government agencies are afforded with holidays and rest period not less than those provided for according to the Labour Protection Act; (2) pregnant employees are entitled to maternity leave up to 120 days per pregnancy (previously was 98 days). The Ministry of Labour's Ministerial Regulation No. 15 B.E. 2567 (2024) also provides additional protection for all domestic workers. This includes maternity leave, specified working hours per day (8 hours per day) and ensuring their minimum wage.

46. From 2021 to 2025, the Thai Government cooperated with the Committee of Experts on the Application of Conventions and Recommendations (CEACR) under the ILO during the process of reporting on the implementation of 10 ILO Conventions and in considering related recommendations.

Trafficking in persons

Recommendations 51.77–51.80, 51.82–51.85, 51.106 and 51.107

47. Since 2022, the Thai Government has implemented the National Referral Mechanism (NRM) for the screening, identification, and protection of trafficking victims, including providing a Reflection Period (RP) for victims' recovery. The Thai Government has also advocated for other countries to put in place the NRM and the Transnational Referral Mechanism (TRM). In May 2026, the Thai government made a voluntary pledge at the 2nd International Migration Review Forum (IMRF) in New York "to strengthen trafficking in persons responses in the context of international migration, by promoting Transnational Referral Mechanism (TRM), using a victim-centered, whole-of-government and whole-of-society approach".

48. The Thai Government has made continuous efforts to prevent and combat new forms of trafficking in persons, particularly trafficking in persons in the context of online scams. Since February 2025, Thailand has assisted in repatriating over 13,500 individuals of 47 nationalities rescued from scam centres in its neighbouring countries, including 5,331 confirmed victims of trafficking in persons for forced criminality (as of 14 July 2026).

49. "The Consular Guidelines to Support Vulnerable Migrants, Especially Potential Victims of Human Trafficking in Thailand" was developed and disseminated by the Ministry of Social Development and Human Security in collaboration with the International Organization for Migration (IOM) on 19 May 2025 to enhance effectiveness of the coordination with relevant partners to provide consular support and protection to victims, including those rescued from scam centres.

50. The Royal Thai Police established the "Anti-Cyber Scam Centre (ACSC)" as a one-stop service hub, to integrate collaboration with government agencies, international organizations, private sector, and civil society. This has led to more effective prosecution and protection of trafficking victims. The Royal Thai Police has also developed the Scam & Human-Trafficking Information Exchange and Linked Database (SHIELD), to support international cooperation on the investigation and prosecution in transnational crimes, particularly trafficking in persons and those related to online scams, in a timely and effective manner.

51. The Thai Government, in collaboration with the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC), co-hosted the International Conference on the Global Partnership against Online Scams on 17–18 December 2025 in Bangkok. The conference aimed at strengthening global partnership in combating online scams in four dimensions (4Ps): (1) Prevention of online scams; (2) Prosecution and law enforcement against transnational criminal groups; (3) Protection of defrauded victims and victims of trafficking in persons; and (4) Policy and Partnership for effective coordination and rapid response.

B. Rights of specific groups

Children

52. On 30 August 2024, the Thai Government deposited with the United Nations an instrument of withdrawal of its reservation to Article 22 of the Convention on the Rights of the Child (CRC) on the protection of children seeking refugee status or recognized as refugees under applicable domestic or international law and procedures. On 28 March 2025, the Thai Government established a working group to monitor and follow-up on the implementation of measures following the withdrawal of the reservation.

53. The Civil and Commercial Code Amendment Act (No. 25) B.E. 2568, which prohibits corporal and psychological punishment of children in all settings, entered into force on 25 March 2025. The Act aims to end all forms of violent punishment against children, whether physical or psychological, in all contexts, including homes, schools and childcare settings. It represents an important measure to protect children’s rights in line with the CRC. Thailand is the second country in ASEAN to enact legislation prohibiting all forms of violent punishment against children.

54. The Criminal Code Amendment Act (No. 29) B.E. 2565 increased the minimum age of criminal responsibility from 10 to 12 years old. This is consistent with the guidance provided in General Comment No. 24 (2019) on Children’s Rights in Juvenile Justice of the Committee on the Rights of the Child, and in accordance with Thailand’s accepted recommendations and voluntary pledges under the second cycle of the UPR.

55. On 29 February 2024, the Thai Government developed a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) on the Protection of the Welfare of Children Below the Minimum Age of Criminal Responsibility as a framework for cooperation among relevant agencies in determining appropriate procedures for children below the minimum age of criminal responsibility. This is in accordance with the Criminal Code provisions on the minimum age of criminal responsibility and the Child Protection Act B.E. 2546 (2003). The Thai Government, in cooperation with UNICEF Thailand, has also developed Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs) for the protection of children at risk of committing offences, children alleged to have committed acts defined as offences by law but who are below the minimum age of criminal responsibility, and children referred for welfare protection by courts or Directors of Juvenile Observation and Protection Centres.

56. On 22 April 2026, the Thai Government approved a community-based approach as an Alternative to Immigration Detention (ATD) for migrant children, with Pattani province as a pilot area for implementation.

Women

Recommendations 51.45–51.46, 51.102, 51.104, 51.128–51.129, 51.132-51.134, 51.136–51.144, 51.146–51.147, 51.149–51.150, 51.152–51.153, 51.158 and 52.27

57. The Preventive Measures for Recidivism of Sexual and Violent Offenses Act B.E. 2565 (2022), entered into force on 23 January 2023. It specifies special legal and practical measures for the rehabilitation, prevention, and monitoring of serious crimes, aiming to ensure public safety, address related issues, and reduce recidivism.

58. The Six-Year Action Plan on the Prevention and Resolution of Rape and Sexual Harassment B.E. 2565-2570 (2022–2027) was approved by the Cabinet on 20 December 2022. The Plan comprises three core strategies: (1) transforming societal knowledge and attitudes (2) improving operational systems to promote justice and (3) strengthening disciplinary, legal and judicial measures to provide assistance to victims.

59. On 4 April 2024, the Thai Government announced the implementation of the Gender Equality Promotion Action Plan B.E. 2566-2570 (2023-2027) to serve as a framework for promoting gender equality in the public sector. Consequently, 58 government agencies have integrated a total of 252 projects and activities in alignment with the Action Plan.

60. The Thai Government has implemented the Women's Development Action Plan B.E. 2566-2570 (2023-2027) in six core pillars: (1) development of human capital for women, including measures to promote education and career in science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM); (2) elimination of violence against women; (3) promotion of women's participation at the decision-making level; (4) public communication to transform societal attitudes, values and belief systems to foster gender equality; (5) development of management tools to empower women and promote gender equality; and (6) enhancement of core competencies of the national mechanism for women's development. This framework includes a monitoring and evaluation system aimed at reducing gender disparity in society.

61. Implementation of measures corresponding to the Concluding Observations of the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women on the 8th periodic report of the Government under the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women (CEDAW) in 2025 are as follows:

(a) Establishment of Gender Equality Centres across all 76 provinces to serve as mechanisms for driving the promotion of equality across multiple dimensions.

(b) Implementation of a project promoting gender equality in STEM learning for school-age youth in educational institutions nationwide. During 2023-2024, a total of 869 schools participated in the project, engaging 7,840 students at the upper primary and lower secondary education levels.

(c) Formulation of the Action Plan on Women, Peace and Security B.E. 2568-2570 (2025-2027) and the National Action Plan on the Elimination of Violence against Women B.E. 2568-2570 (2025-2027).

(d) Promotion of women's roles in economic and public participation: A notable example is the signing of a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) to build capacity and enhance market opportunities for women-owned Small and Medium Enterprises (SMEs) between the Federation of Thai SMEs and the United Nations Entity for Gender Equality and the Empowerment of Women (UN Women) on 20 January 2023.

(e) Enactment of specific legislation to address sexual harassment, pursuant to the Act Amending the Criminal Code (No. 30) B.E. 2568 (2025) on 30 December 2025, which elevates acts of sexual harassment to constitute criminal offences.

Older persons

62. The Thai Government is considering the amendments to the Older Persons Act B.E. 2546 (2003) and its subsequent amendments. The amendments aim to align the legislation with the nation's transition into a super aged society and to address the needs of older persons more effectively and comprehensively. Key areas of focus include the development of a long-term care system and the promotion of post-retirement employment and occupational opportunities.

63. The 3rd National Plan on Older Persons B.E. 2566-2580 (2023-2037) was approved by the Cabinet on 17 May 2022. It serves as a proactive operational framework to accommodate an ageing society and to continuously and equitably elevate the quality of life for older persons across all dimensions.

64. The Thai Government implements the Community-Based Care and Rights Protection for Older Persons Project to promote local-level care and protect the rights of older persons. This is achieved by enhancing the capacity of caregivers, fostering integrated care mechanisms, and ensuring that older persons receive comprehensive support encompassing health, social well-being and rights protection.

Persons with disabilities

Recommendations 51.1–51.2, 51.4, 51.17, 51.23, 51.102, 51.104, 51.111, 51.128, 51.158, 51.166–51.168, 51.170–51.171, 51.173–51.174 and 51.177

65. The Thai Government is advancing the draft Persons with Disabilities Empowerment Act (No. 3) to align domestic legislation with the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD). The provisions include amending clauses pertaining to non-discrimination, the official recognition of Thai Sign Language, the enhancement of the right to access the reform of fund administration, and the increased participation of persons with disabilities and women with disabilities in policy making.

66. The Thai Government promotes the rights of persons with disabilities to accessible travel through the issuance of various regulations and mandates. These include the Civil Aviation Authority of Thailand (CAAT) Requirement No. 90 (2025), which establishes standards for facilities and services for passengers requiring special assistance, including persons with disabilities. This mandates airports and airlines to provide accessible services and to train personnel in rendering appropriate assistance. Furthermore, the promulgation of the Rail Transport Act B.E. 2568 (2025) sets forth standards for facilities and services, guaranteeing the right to safe and equitable service provision. It also stipulates the determination of fares with due regard for the rights of persons with disabilities, in accordance with the CRPD, particularly Articles 5, 9, and 20.

67. The Thai Government has implemented measures to promote social equality by expanding Personal Assistant (PA) training centres for persons with disabilities from 30 to 50 locations nationwide. This initiative aims to train 1,800 Personal Assistants across 30 provinces. It encompasses the development of a One Stop Service system in collaboration with health facilities to facilitate the issuance of disability identification cards and to connect access to various welfare benefits with greater speed and efficiency.

68. The Thai Government has initiated a foster family program to encourage the care of persons with disabilities in a family and community environment. Under this scheme, caregivers are entitled to receive financial remuneration and essential living expenses of persons with disabilities, as deemed necessary and appropriate. This aligns with the principle of deinstitutionalisation as outlined in the CRPD.

69. The Thai Government promotes the right of persons with disabilities to access information by integrating disability-related data into "Thang Rath", a central government application. This is executed with due consideration for the principle of digital accessibility, alongside the development of a comprehensive welfare rights database system for persons with disabilities.

70. The Thai Government has implemented programs to promote employment and inclusive businesses involving the active participation of persons with disabilities. They are conducted in collaboration with the Asia-Pacific Development Center on Disability (APCD) and the United Nations Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (ESCAP).

Ethnic groups

Recommendations 51.2, 51.4, 51.23, 51.30, 51.51, 51.126, 51.170, 51.180 and 52.77

71. The Protection and Promotion of the Way of Life of Ethnic Groups Act B.E. 2568 (2025) entered into force on 19 September 2025 to provide protection of the rights of ethnic groups. The Act marks a paradigm shift in the relations between the State and ethnic groups, from a welfare- or assistance-based approach towards disadvantaged persons to a rights-based approach that recognizes the equal protection of the rights of ethnic groups by the State and promotes their empowerment.

72. The Thai Government, through the National Security Council (NSC), has adopted the Action Plan on the Promotion of Peaceful Coexistence in a Multicultural Society in Thailand B.E. 2566-2570 (2023-2027) as a national policy framework to address barriers affecting ethnic groups. The Action Plan establishes mechanisms to enhance coordination among relevant sectors in order to promote peaceful coexistence in a multicultural society.

73. The Thai Government is drafting the Anti-Discrimination Bill B.E. .... as a central law for the protection of equality, equal treatment and the elimination of discrimination on the ground of diversity, including in race, religion and ethnicity.

LGBTIQ+ persons

74. The Thai Government has formulated and promulgated the Civil and Commercial Code Amendment Act (No. 24) B.E. 2567 (2024) (Marriage Equality Law), which came into effect on 23 January 2025. This legislation recognizes the right to found a family for all individuals and adjusts the minimum legal age for marriage to 18 years.

75. The 5th National Human Rights Plan B.E. 2566-2570 (2023–2027) designates LGBTIQ+ as a key target for the promotion of gender equality and promotes public awareness raising on the human rights of LGBTIQ+ persons.

76. The Gender Equality Promotion Committee has endorsed and authorized the publication of the All-Gender Restroom Manual. This manual serves as a comprehensive guideline for allocating space or refurbishing facilities to ensure they are contextually appropriate. It aligns with the fundamental principles of accommodating the needs of all groups, encompassing sex, gender identity, physical conditions, and other specific requirements or limitations.

77. The Rights and Liberties Protection Department, Ministry of Justice, in collaboration with the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), has regularly convened dialogues across various provinces nationwide to foster respect for the rights and appropriate treatment of LGBTIQ+ persons among law enforcement officers.

Migrant workers

Recommendations 51.104, 51.129, 51.181, 51.183–51.189 and voluntary pledge 54 (f)

78. The Thai Government has continuously collaborated with the International Labour Organization (ILO) on various projects to promote and protect the rights of migrant workers. These include the "Ship to Shore Rights South-East Asia: Safe Migration for Decent Work in the Blue Economy" project to promote safe migration for migrant workers and decent work throughout the fisheries and seafood supply chains in a sustainable manner, and the "TRIANGLE Partnerships for Fair and Effective Labour Migration in ASEAN (TRIANGLE Partnerships)" project (2026–2031) to promote fair recruitment, regular pathways and better protection of migrant workers.

79. The Thai Government has increased the numbers of Migrant Worker Assistance Centres from 10 provinces to 30 provinces nationwide. The centres provide assistance to migrant workers in their country of origin's languages including Myanmar, Lao, Khmer, and Vietnamese. In 2025, more than 99,363 migrant workers received relevant assistance from these centres.

80. Since 2023, the Thai Government has collaborated with the International Organization for Migration (IOM) to implement a project on the promotion of evidence-based migration discourse and media reporting. The project aims to enhance capacity-building of relevant stakeholders to report on migration and migrants in Thailand without discrimination, in line with Thailand's voluntary pledge made during the 1st International Migration Review Forum (IMRF) in 2022.

Displaced persons and persons in need of protection

Recommendation 52.80

81. The Thai Government has put in place the National Screening Mechanism (NSM) since 2023, to screen and provide protection to foreign nationals who are unable to return to their country of origin due to reasonable grounds to believe that they may be at risk of persecution or may face serious harm, if repatriated. The Thai Government is exploring the possibility of allowing the protected persons under the NSM to work, and issuing identification cards for legal identity.

82. On 26 August 2025, the Cabinet approved Measures for the management of employment of foreign nationals residing in temporary shelters for Myanmar Displaced Persons (MDPs), allowing the MDPs to work outside the temporary shelters under relevant guidelines. To date, 6,089 MDPs have entered the labour market (as of 16 July 2026). The Thai Government has also developed a Roadmap to serve as a strategic framework for the integrated implementation of the said policy among relevant agencies, in supporting the transition from aid dependency to self-reliance in a sustainable manner.

83. The Thai Government started issuing official non-Thai identification cards to the MDPs on 18 June 2026 to enhance their protection and access to services. To date, the Thai Government has issued identification cards to 1,171 MDPs (as of 14 July 2026). The Ministry of Public Health has also issued guidelines that enable the MDPs residing in temporary shelters to access health insurance.

Stateless persons

Recommendations 51.97–51.98, 51.190 and voluntary pledge 54 (e)

84. Thailand is one of the founding members of the Global Alliance to End Statelessness, initiated by the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) following the conclusion of the #IBelong Campaign in 2024. The Alliance aims to enhance the capacity of member countries, encourage positive changes in laws, policies, and practices, as well as promote political will towards the eradication of statelessness.

85. On 29 October 2024, the Cabinet approved a resolution to expedite the pathway to permanent residency and nationality for stateless populations of 489,915 persons. Key elements under the resolution include shortening of approval process from 270 days to 5 days for permanent residency for long-term residents who are stateless persons, and from 180 days to 5 days for nationality which benefits different groups including children born in Thailand to stateless parents. As a result, 121,471 stateless individuals have been granted permanent residency or citizenship under the scheme (as of 15 July 2026). On 30 June 2026, the Cabinet approved the extension of the scheme under the said Cabinet Resolution for an additional year, until 30 June 2027, to further advance the national goal of eradicating statelessness and enhancing access to fundamental rights and services.

86. The Office of the National Security Council has drafted the National Action Plan on Resolving Statelessness (2025–2027) to serve as a framework to expedite the resolution of statelessness among government agencies in a systematic and concrete manner, in line with Thailand's voluntary pledge made at the 2nd Global Refugee Forum in 2023 in Geneva.

C. Civil and political rights

Prohibition of torture and enforced disappearance, and freedom of opinion and expression, and freedom of assembly

Recommendations 51.3, 51.10–51.13, 51.15, 51.23–51.28, 51.43–51.44, 51.72–51.74, 51.95, 51.191, 51.194 and voluntary pledge 54 (a)

87. On 14 May 2024, the Thai Government ratified the International Convention for the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance (ICPPED), which subsequently entered into force for Thailand on 13 June 2024.

88. On 15 September 2023, the Thai Government withdrew its Interpretative Declarations to the Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment (CAT), concerning Article 1 on the definition of torture, Article 4 on the criminalisation of torture, attempts to commit torture, and complicity in torture, and Article 5 on the establishment of jurisdiction over such offences.

89. The Thai Government enacted the Prevention and Suppression of Torture and Enforced Disappearance Act, B.E. 2565 (2022), which entered into force on 26 February 2023. The Act establishes a comprehensive legal framework to prevent, criminalize, investigate, and punish acts of torture and enforced disappearance, while strengthening safeguards for the protection of human rights in accordance with Thailand's international obligations. The implementation of the Act encompasses three dimensions: Prevention, Suppression, and Remedy.

90. The Rights and Liberties Protection Department, Ministry of Justice, has amended the Witness Protection Act B.E. 2546 (2003) through the Witness Protection Act in Criminal Cases (No. 2) B.E. 2565 (2022), which came into force on 24 November 2022. The amended legislation extends protection to whistleblowers and informants regarding criminal offences by ensuring their safety, appropriate treatment, and necessary and reasonable compensation from the state.

91. The Thai Government is conducting a study on and drafting of the Anti-Strategic Lawsuit Against Public Participation Act B.E. .... (Anti-SLAPP Bill), to establish a legal mechanism for preventing and addressing the problem of strategic lawsuits against public participation, and to strengthen the protection of human rights defenders, the media, civil society, and the general public in exercising their rights and freedoms in good faith for the public interest.

92. The Thai Government has strengthened the justice process in protecting the rights and liberties of the people through the issuance of the Recommendation of the President of the Supreme Court on the Criteria and Procedures for Case Consideration under Section 161/1 of the Criminal Procedure Code B.E. 2569 (2026). This empowers courts to examine and dismiss cases where it appears that the plaintiff has filed a case in bad faith or with the intent to distort facts for the purpose of harassment or to take unfair advantage of the defendant, to prevent the use of court proceedings as a tool for intimidation or the suppression of the exercise of the right to freedom of opinion and expression and participation in public affairs.

93. The Public Prosecutors' Regulations on Criminal Proceedings also address cases involving a single offence that may be prosecuted in multiple jurisdictions to ensure consistency in the administration of justice and protect individual rights and freedoms. Where complaints are filed in several jurisdictions within the same region, the case file must be promptly referred to the relevant Regional Public Prosecutor's Office. Where different regions are involved, it must be referred to the Department of the Attorney General's Litigation Affairs.

Administration of justice

94. The Thai Government enacted the Act Prescribing Timeframes for Judicial Proceedings, B.E. 2565 (2022) to promote the right of individuals to access justice through timely, fair, and effective judicial proceedings by establishing statutory timeframes for the operation of justice agencies, with the aim of enhancing the efficiency, transparency, and accountability of the justice system. The Act requires relevant justice agencies to establish and publicly disclose standard timeframes for the performance of their functions, as well as to monitor and evaluate compliance with those standards on a continuous basis.

95. The Act on Facilitation of the Consideration of Government Licenses and the Provision of Public Service B.E.2569 (2026), will come into force on 4 January 2027. The Act aims at reducing impediments and enhancing transparency in government service delivery and licenses granting processes, through the development of a "Citizen's Handbook", the adoption of electronic systems for the submission of applications and the interlinking of data among agencies (One Stop Service), as well as mechanisms for explanation and review in cases where an agency's consideration exceeds the prescribed timeframe.

96. The Thai Government has adopted and is implementing the 4th National Justice Administration Master Plan (2023-2026) as a strategic framework to integrate cooperation among government agencies and other stakeholders across the justice system. It aims to ensure a unified approach to justice administration and to enhance inter-agency coordination through coherent and systematic cooperation mechanisms.

97. The Thai Government has introduced online court services, electronic case tracking systems, and online mediation platforms, enabling parties to access justice services more conveniently, promptly, and effectively.

98. The Rights and Liberties Protection Department has developed an AI Chatbot to provide the public with access to legal guidance and information on victim assistance and remedy procedures, available at all times without charge.

The criminal justice system and the rights of prisoners

99. The Thai Government has promoted the development of a digital justice system in the adjudication process involving inmates to enhance efficiency, timing, and convenience in the administration of justice. The system also seeks to reduce constraints related to the transportation of inmates to courts and relevant agencies.

100. The Thai Government has implemented measures to reduce prison overcrowding through systematic expansion of alternatives to imprisonment (non-custodial measures), including non-custodial sanctions, diversion programs, and community-based rehabilitation measures where appropriate. These approaches are applied in accordance with the principles of proportionality and human rights protection, with the aim of promoting offender rehabilitation, reducing recidivism, and further enhancing a more humane and effective criminal justice system.

101. The Thai Government has expanded access to public health services and rehabilitation for persons in custody, to ensure that they receive appropriate, equitable, and human rights-based healthcare. The services encompass disease prevention, medical treatment, health promotion, and rehabilitation services within correctional facilities.

102. The Thai Government has developed approaches for the care and management of vulnerable prisoners, including women prisoners, children and juveniles, and foreign prisoners to ensure that the treatment of inmates is consistent with human rights principles, equality, and human dignity.

103. The Ministry of Justice, through the Rights and Liberties Protection Department, has issued the Ministerial Regulation on the Payment of Compensation to Victims and Restitution and Expenses to Defendants in Criminal Cases B.E. 2569 (2026), which came into force on 2 March 2026. The Regulation raises compensation rates and eliminates procedural requirements for claim applications and in-person appearance. The Ministry of Justice is currently proposing a draft amendment to the Victim Compensation and Restitution for the Accused Person Act (No. ..) B.E. ...., to improve compensation criteria in alignment with current economic conditions, and to better protect the rights of innocent suspects and defendants by ensuring more expeditious and equitable access to assistance.

104. The Thai Government has promoted vocational training for persons in custody, particularly in digital technology and Artificial Intelligence (AI) skills, alongside the development of employment support systems, to increase opportunities for social reintegration and employment after release.

105. The Thai Government has implemented a program on the use of long-acting injectable medication for eligible persons in custody under the Measures to Prevent Recidivism of Sexual and Violent Crimes Act B.E. 2565 (2022) for persons in custody with mental health conditions or psychiatric illness, as well as those with substance use problems.

D. Business and human rights

Recommendations 51.56–51.59 and voluntary pledges 54 (f) and 54 (g)

106. The Thai Government has advanced the implementation of the 2nd National Action Plan on Business and Human Rights (2023-2027) to promote business conduct that respects human rights in accordance with international standards. It also aims to enhance awareness and understanding of the Action Plan, responsible business conduct, and human rights due diligence (HRDD). These efforts are undertaken through cooperation between government agencies and international partners, including the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP), the International Organization for Migration (IOM), the International Labour Organization (ILO), and the Global Compact Network Thailand (GCNT), to systematically and sustainably promote human rights standards in the business sector.

107. A total of 112 out of 125 activities under the Action Plan have been implemented, representing 89.60 per cent of the Plan. These activities include the establishment of an Employees' Welfare Fund, the improvement of guidelines for public participation in the preparation of Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) reports in 2023, and the amendment of the Organic Act on Anti-Corruption (No. 2) B.E. 2568 (2025).

108. The Thai Government is drafting the Promotion of Responsible Business Conduct Act B.E. .... (Human Rights Due Diligence Law) to establish mandatory human rights due diligence throughout business supply chains, in fulfilment of Thailand's voluntary pledge made during the third UPR cycle. The draft Act requires businesses to undertake comprehensive human rights due diligence throughout their supply chains, including the identification, assessment, prevention, mitigation and monitoring of potential human rights risks arising from business operations.

109. The Thai Government recognizes that advancing policies on business and human rights requires a supportive system that enables small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs), accounting for more than 90 per cent of businesses in the country, to adapt and effectively conduct business while respecting human rights.

E. New challenges

Right to a clean, healthy, and sustainable environment, and human rights and climate change

Recommendations 51.60–51.64

110. The Thai Government established the Department of Climate Change and Environment on 18 August 2023 as a leading agency in formulating policies and driving national actions on climate change and environmental protection. The mandates of the Department include proposing policies and action plans to implement international commitments, developing knowledge and expertise, and promoting the participation of all sectors.

111. The Thai Government is drafting the Climate Change Act B.E. .... to establish a comprehensive legal framework to support national climate action. The draft Act has been approved by the Cabinet and is currently under consideration of the Office of the Council of State. It is expected to be finalized in the first half of 2027.

112. The Government has also advanced the draft Clean Air Act B.E. ...., which is currently under consideration by the Senate.

Digital technology and human rights

Recommendations 51.90, 51.93–51.95

113. The Government has developed the Digital Government Development Plan of Thailand (2023-2027) as a strategic framework to systematically and effectively drive the transition towards digital government, in line with the evolving context of a digital society.

114. The Thai Government, through the Ministry of Digital Economy and Society, has developed the Draft Principles of the Artificial Intelligence (AI) Law to establish a framework for the governance, development and application of AI technologies in a responsible manner, consistent with international standards and responsive to future technological changes. The Thai Government has also advanced the upgrading of the AI Governance Practice Center (AIGPC) under the Electronic Transactions Development Agency (ETDA) as a regional hub for AI Governance in Practice.

115. The Thai Government signed the United Nations Convention against Cybercrime on 25 October 2025 in Hanoi, reflecting its commitment to preventing and combating cybercrime in all its forms.

116. The Personal Data Protection Act B.E. 2562 (2019) (PDPA) entered into force on 1 June 2022.

VIII. Challenges

117. Economic, social and cultural rights: The Thai Government continues to face challenges in expanding labour protection to cover all groups of workers, particularly informal workers, platform workers and workers engaged in new forms of employment, to ensure their comprehensive access to social security and labour protection. Other challenges include strengthening the sustainability of the public health system and addressing environmental issues, particularly transboundary air pollution and the impacts of climate change, which require cooperation at the national, sub-regional and regional levels. Moreover, establishing a balance between the conservation of natural resources and the protection of the rights and livelihoods of local communities and ethnic groups requires continued implementation of policies and the participation of all sectors.

118. Rights of specific groups: The Thai Government continues to face challenges in preventing and addressing violence against women, children and family members, as well as protecting children from violence and exploitation in online media. Continuous efforts are being made to enhance the effectiveness of prevention, protection and remedy mechanisms to ensure a more comprehensive and access of services.

119. Civil and political rights: The Thai Government continues to face challenges in strengthening public confidence in the justice system. It continues to make efforts in improving the efficiency of justice processes to ensure transparency, accessibility and consistency with international human rights standards, as well as by reviewing and developing laws and practices related to the protection of rights within the justice system. In relation to the management of cross-border movements of persons and the protection of persons in vulnerable situations, efforts are being undertaken to further enhance screening, protection and referral mechanisms in accordance with relevant domestic laws and international obligations. The Thai Government also strives to achieve a balance between the protection of freedom of expression and public participation and law enforcement through continued review and development of relevant laws, practices and measures.
